What is a Queen

The Book of Esther

A Queen is defined in Dictionary.com as a “a female sovereign or monarch. the wife or consort of a king. a woman, or something personified as a woman, that is foremost or preeminent in any respect..” When I think of queen I think of rulership, governing, reigning over a country or industry and finally, being the best at or dominant at what is done, i.e. “The Queen of Publishing.” That’s what they call me. Lol. I digress but it is true. Having the knowledge, ability, fortitude, grit and stamina to rule and actually be a queen at something, is a daunting task and one that shouldn’t be taken lightly. Now, one of the biggest mistakes that people and especially women make is comparing their kingdoms, abilities, gifts, talents, territories or opportunities that are placed in their path. Instead of being the “best” or doing the “best” at what is placed in the individual person’s hands, they strive to have, be, do and compete with someone else. So, are you striving to be the Queen of your own destiny or someone else’s? Are you wanting to dominate and conquer someone else’s territory or create your own path by being a maverick or trailblazer? What has God called you to be a Queen over? What does He want you to rule, reign, govern, preside, create and produce in your own Kingdom or backyard? It is possible for us all to win. It is possible for us all to be Queens. Two people may do the same thing but never will they do it the same way. There is a Queen down inside of all of us waiting to come out and be great. Will you sit back and just criticize others who are making strides with their Kingdom or will you walk out by faith into your own? Where is your Kingdom? What do you dominate? You are the Queen of what...?

Prayer: Lord, make me into the Queen you want me to be. In Jesus' Name. Amen.
